

Raymore-Peculiar School District

DISTRICT ASSESSMENT PLAN

2016-2017

An Overview of Assessment

Assessment is a crucial part of the instructional process. By analyzing information from assessments, teachers can more effectively determine what students know and are able to do. Examining assessment information is essential to identifying gaps in learning or opportunities to challenge students. The 2016-2017 Raymore-Peculiar School District Assessment Plan includes all federal- and state-mandated assessments in addition to locally developed assessments. Other assessments are used to identify students in need so interventions can be put into place (such as the Northwest Evaluation Association Assessment). Regular, quality assessment aides the district in answering the four guiding questions of Professional Learning Communities:

- What is it we want our students to know and be able to do?
- How will we know when they have learned it?
- What will we do in our schools and our district when students are not learning or being successful?
- What will we do in our schools and our district when students already know the material and are being highly successful?

Assessment Descriptions

Missouri Assessment Program

Grade-Level Assessments (referred to as MAP)

The MAP assessments are required by the state and given to grades 3-8 in selected subject areas. Subject areas that are assessed include English language arts and math in grades 3-8, and science in grades 5 and 8. These assessments are used to measure what students know and are able to do in relation to skills identified by the Missouri Learning Standards. Results are also used to determine student performance trends over time and help to make conclusions regarding the effectiveness of the locally developed district curriculum. These results are reflected in building and district Annual Performance Reports produced by Missouri's Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

End-of-Course (EOC) Exams

End-of-course exams are required by the state and given to students when they successfully complete selected courses. Courses that are assessed include: English II, Algebra I, Geometry (student choice) , Algebra II, Biology, and American Government. These assessments are used to measure what students know and are able to do in relation to skills identified by the Missouri Learning Standards and are included in student's final grade for the course. Results are also used to determine student performance trends over time and help to make conclusions regarding the effectiveness of the locally developed district curriculum. These results are reflected in building and district Annual Performance Reports produced by Missouri's Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

MAP Alternate (MAP-A) Assessments

The MAP Alternate (MAP-A) test is used for approximately one to two percent of our special education population. It is designed for a specific population of students who have significant cognitive disabilities which would require an alternate method of assessment. The test is only administered by special education teachers.

The district expectation is that all students will participate in the Missouri Assessment Program, which is an important part of the teaching and learning process. Both the district and the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) are required by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA") to keep personally identifiable student information confidential. Therefore, neither DESE nor the district will disclose a student's personally identifiable information to any other entity without consent, including the federal government.

Early Childhood Assessments

Ages & Stages Questionnaire (ASQ)

ASQ is a developmental and social-emotional screening for children from one month to 5 ½ years. The screener looks at strengths, trouble spots, and recognizes developmental milestones. Information guides instructional decisions and identifies student growth.

Elementary Level Assessments

Standardized Assessments

Kindergarten Screening

Pre-Kindergarten screening is used before the school year begins to gather information about incoming kindergarten students. The inventory checks such skills as gross and fine motor, letter knowledge, phonemic awareness and number sense. The screening informs teachers on students' levels of understanding based around beginning skills. Such information guides instructional decisions.

Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA)

The NWEA Measures of Academic Performance is an adaptive assessment that serves as a universal screening tool and is designed to identify a student's instructional level and skill set in the areas of reading and mathematics. The assessment is nationally normed and provides results in Rausch Incremental Units (RIT) as well as a Lexile score. It is given to all students in grades K-6, three times a year. A component of NWEA, Skills Navigator, provides information to teachers to pinpoint specific skills of students needing intervention, differentiate tiers of instruction (e.g., Response to Intervention [RTI]) and monitor progress.

AIMSweb

AIMSweb offers brief (1-3 min) assessments (K-6) that provide normed information to teachers of students receiving special education services regarding early literacy, reading fluency, reading comprehension, math fluency, and math comprehension skills, and allows them to monitor each student's progress toward goals throughout the year.

Fountas & Pinnell Benchmark Assessment (F & P)

F & P is an assessment administered by the classroom teacher using standardized procedures. It is used to measure the level of difficulty at which students are able to read fiction and nonfiction texts. Results are determined at an instructional level and an independent level.

Scholastic Reading Inventory (SRI)

SRI is a computer-based reading assessment (grades 5-6) that provides immediate, actionable data on comprehension reading levels of students receiving reading intervention services. Assessments are on-going and embedded to continually monitor progress and guide instruction within the program. The assessment is given multiple times throughout the year. SRI is based on the Lexile Framework for Reading and College and Career Readiness, which can be used to match students with appropriate texts for successful reading experiences.

World-Class Instructional Design and Assessment (WIDA)-Assessing Comprehension and Communication in English State-to-State (ACCESS) Placement Test (W-APT)

An English language proficiency "screeener" test given to incoming students who may be designated as English language learners (ELL). It assists educators with programmatic placement decisions such as identification and placement of ELL.

National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP- Required After Random Selection)

The National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) is the largest nationally representative and continuing assessment of what America's students know and can do in various subject areas. NAEP results serve as a common metric for all states and selected urban districts. Selected schools represent Missouri and the nation, and their participation provides an accurate picture of national education progress. NAEP results are based on representative samples of students at grades 4, 8, and 12.

Non-standardized District Assessments

District Priority Learning Target Assessments

Priority Learning Target assessments are locally created, district-wide assessments administered using the data cycle process. The fundamental purpose of priority learning targets assessments is to provide information that can be used to guide instruction and monitor curriculum alignment. Assessments are aligned to state and local curricular standards and aligned to local curriculum frameworks.

Common Formative Assessments

Additional formative assessments are administered within the classroom. Formative assessments include formal and informal assessment procedures employed by teachers during the learning process in order to modify teaching and learning activities to improve student performance.

Voluntary School-Determined Assessments

Ray-Pec teachers, in collaboration with principals, may administer additional voluntary assessments at their discretion in order to confirm or support instructional decisions. E.g. MobyMax is used in classroom centers and can be tailored by the teacher to individual students or current class focus skills.

Secondary Level Assessments

Standardized Assessments

ACT

The ACT is a national college admissions assessment consisting of subject area tests in math, reading, English and science. The state of Missouri provides the opportunity for all 11th graders to take the ACT in the spring. Results provide students information regarding their performance in these core areas. Colleges and universities for admissions decisions use the ACT. Scores on the test may also be used to determine placement in several core subject upper level courses or in various honors programs. Because course and grading standards vary, the tests are utilized by colleges and universities as a standardized method of identifying student academic achievement.

NWEA (Northwest Evaluation Association)

The NWEA Measures of Academic Performance is an adaptive assessment that serves as a universal screening tool and is designed to identify a student's instructional level and skill set in the areas of reading and mathematics. The assessment is nationally normed and provides results in Rausch Incremental Units (RIT) as well as a Lexile score. It is given to all students in grades 7-8, three times a year. A component of NWEA, Skills Navigator, provides information to teachers to pinpoint specific skills of students needing intervention, differentiate tiers of instruction (e.g., Response to Intervention [RTI]) and monitor progress.

Scholastic Reading Inventory (SRI)

SRI is a computer-based reading assessment given to all students (grades 9-12) that provides immediate, actionable data on students' comprehension reading level. The assessment is given fall and spring. SRI is based on the Lexile Framework for Reading and College and Career Readiness, which can be used to match students with appropriate texts for successful reading experiences.

World-Class Instructional Design and Assessment (WIDA)-Assessing Comprehension and Communication in English State-to-State (ACCESS) Placement Test (W-APT)

The assessment is an English language proficiency "screener" test given to incoming students who may be designated as English language learners. It assists educators with programmatic placement decisions such as identification and placement of ELLs.

National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP- Required After Random Selection)

The National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) is the largest nationally representative and continuing assessment of what America's students know and can do in various subject areas. NAEP results serve as a common metric for all states and selected urban districts. Selected schools represent Missouri and the nation, and their participation provides an accurate picture of national education progress. NAEP results are based on representative samples of students at grades 4, 8, and 12.

Non-standardized District Assessments

District Priority Learning Target Assessments

Priority Learning Target assessments are locally created, district-wide assessments administered using the data cycle process. The fundamental purpose of priority learning targets assessments is to provide information that can be used to guide instructional strategies and monitor curriculum alignment. Assessments are aligned to state and local curricular standards and aligned to local curriculum frameworks.

Voluntary Assessments

Voluntary assessments are either opted into by a student or family or students are selected to participate with parent/guardian permission. Many, but not all, of these assessments are offered in October during the high school's 'Super Test Day'.

Cambridge Practice ACT

Cambridge's practice ACT assessments are designed to provide insight into a student's future ACT performance. They are based on the ACT College and Career Benchmarks and are designed to track achievement in reading, math, English, and science. The reports provide teachers, parents and students with easily understood information that pinpoints a student's strengths and weaknesses. In addition, it provides teachers with insight into the strengths and weaknesses of district curriculum. The Cambridge assessments will be given at the 9th, 10th and 11th grade levels.

ACT Engage

ACT Engage measures student motivation, social engagement and self-regulation. In particular, it provides feedback to students on their communication skills, study skills, academic self-confidence, and commitment to college. Juniors and seniors who are college-bound will be offered this assessment so they can measure their readiness for postsecondary education.

Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT)

The PSAT is a voluntary test taken for scholarship purposes. A high school junior may enter the scholarship competition administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. The following year the top .5% of all seniors who took the test as juniors are declared National Merit Semi Finalists. The PSAT is also used to prepare for the SAT. Juniors may take the test for competition while sophomores may opt to take it for practice. There is a fee.

Advanced Placement (AP)

Advanced Placement examinations are taken each spring by students at participating schools. The assessments are the culmination of year-long Advanced Placement courses. All but one of the AP exams combine multiple-choice questions with a free-response section in either essay or problem-solving format. AP Studio Art, the sole exception, requires students to submit a portfolio for review. Colleges/universities may award college credit depending on the student's scores on these exams.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

IB assessments are taken in the spring and are designed to emphasize the development of higher-order cognitive skills. They are criterion-related and focus on students' ability to think analytically and critically, to integrate and apply their learning, to work collaboratively and to communicate what they have learned in writing and orally. The assessments use varied tasks that evaluate students' abilities in these areas and may include a variety of assessment components. Colleges/universities may award college credit depending on the student's scores on these exams.

American College Test (ACT) & Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT)

Colleges and universities for admissions decisions use the ACT and the SAT. Scores on these tests may also be used to determine placement in several core subject upper level courses or in various honors programs. Because course and grading standards vary, the tests are utilized by colleges and universities as a standardized method of identifying student academic achievement. There is a fee for both tests (with the exception of the state provided ACT given in the spring of a student's junior year).

Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB)

The ASVAB provides students with aptitude measurements to assist students become more aware of their potential capabilities related to specific careers upon graduation. It is a voluntary instrument sometimes used for students entering technical courses at area vocational schools.

Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE)

The Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE) is a standardized test published by CTB/McGraw Hill. Prior to a student being accepted into Missouri Options program at the Ray-Pec Academy, the counselor will administer the TABE test to determine a student's weak points and identify the skills that the student need to work to improve. Once the TABE scores reach a specific level, then the Missouri Options student can either take a practice GED test or take the actual GED test.

Enrichment, and Academic Pursuit (LEAP) Assessments

The following assessments may be administered when determining eligibility into the district gifted program. These measures meet the requirements set forth by the state of Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education for gifted identification.

Academic Achievement

IOWA (i.e. Iowa Test of Basic Skills): The IOWA provides a diagnostic look at how their students are progressing in key academic areas.

Intellectual Ability

Wechsler Nonverbal Scale of Ability (WNV): The WNV is a nonverbal measure of general ability (i.e. IQ).

Reasoning and Problem-solving Ability

Cognitive Abilities Test (CogAT) measures both aptitude (reasoning) and achievement. The assessment estimates students' learned reasoning and problem solving abilities through a battery of verbal, quantitative, and nonverbal test items.

Characteristics of Giftedness

Gifted Rating Scales (GRS): The GRS are norm-referenced rating scales completed by teachers based on current theories of giftedness and guidelines regarding the definition of gifted and talented students. The six domains measured include: intellectual, academic, motivation, creativity, leadership, and artistic talent.

Special Education Assessments

The following assessments are used in the special education department for identification and support of students. Details of the purposes, administration, processes, and procedures regarding these assessments can be found by contacting the District special services department.
